JANESVILLE, WIS., THURSDAY, MAY 5, 1864.

NUMBER 57.

STATE NEWS.

The La Crosse Republican says the Wisconsin river has at present a fair running stage of water, and lumber and logs are coming out in large quantities. The town of Eau Claire, on the Chippewa River, was visited Sunday last with a terrible conflagration, which destroyed the main business part of the place. The fire was discovered Sunday morning. The wind blowing strongly drove the fire along like chaff. Total loss from $50,000 to $60,000. Insurance about $15,000.

The Beaver Dam Citizen states that a linen factory on a large scale, is to be built and put in running order in that place this season. The Dodgeville Chronicle says: Our last consignment for Idaho, we believe, is on its way. A squad started a few days ago. Quite a number have left lately, and one would naturally think business would be a little dull, but we can't see it. Business is brisk, and greenbacks are plenty. The Oshkosh Courier says that diphtheria is raging fearfully in that city at the present time. The Whitewater Register says: The choicest lot of fat cattle we ever saw driven from this section, were sold to go to the Chicago market, on Wednesday last. There were forty-six head in all, and the average weight was 1,325 pounds. They were fed by Mr. Alanson Pike, and sold to Messrs. Bump and Norton, of Janesville, for 65 cents, on foot, the lot amounting to nearly $4,000. They were a splendid drove of cattle, and our Chicago friends are to be envied the choice steaks and roasts that will be cut from them.

GOBBLED.—The La Crosse Republican learns by the Milwaukee papers that the "Cutter," Frank Moore Capt., which left this city a few days since for Idaho, has been captured by guerrillas, and all the passengers robbed. The report is not credited in Milwaukee.

Every passenger was armed to the teeth, and with firm resistance, could have given an attacking party a lively fight. Be the report true or false, the route, by boat to Idaho is a dangerous one.

FOREST is reported to be in the vicinity of Memphis, and General Sturgis, with 5,000 men, has left the city in search of him. All horses in the vicinity have been pressed into the Federal service. General C. C. Washburne has assumed command of the Department of the Tennessee headquarters at Memphis.

SECRETARY CHASE has examined into the charges of gross misconduct against S. M. Clark, head of the Bank Note Printing Bureau in the Treasury Department, which have already been noticed in our Washington dispatches, and has dismissed him from office.

MILITARY AUTHORITIES at Memphis are determined to bring contraband trading and smuggling to an end in that vicinity. One smuggler has been hanged, and others are under sentence of death. Several arrests have been made besides.

JAMES HOLBROOK, the well known special agent of the Postoffice Department, and author of "Ten years among the Mail Bags," died a few days since, at his residence in Brooklyn, Conn., after a long illness.

PADUCAH is again threatened by the rebels, and large numbers of citizens have left the place.

A REPORTER of the Poughkeepsie Sanitary Fair tells us: "Passing through one of the halls, a placard caught my eye: 'Representation of a bona fide historical event; persons taken in for ten cents.' I called in. A young lady pulled a horse across a huge piece of ham rind, which she was pleased to inform me represented Bonaparte crossing the Rhine."

COL. WOLFORD addressed a political meeting in Danville, Ky., last Thursday. The Tribune of that place says that he produced a certificate signed by a large number of the prominent citizens of the county of Fayette, which clearly exonerated him of the charge that he had advocated a forcible resistance to the enrollment of the slaves in this State.

ANNA DICKENSON resided in Boston, in the Mission Hall, on Wednesday, the speech she made in New York last week, denouncing General Banks without stint. The Boston Post remarks that "her sentiments did not seem to meet with universal approval, but Miss Dickenson scolded those who hesitated so vehemently that they were fain to keep quiet."

MISS MARY FERRIS, a secessionist, who was arrested at Nashville the other day, is a Yankee from Maine, and had in her possession about a bushel of rebel letters. She has been for some time a school teacher in Georgia, and bragged that she was going North to play the duce with the whole Yankee nation.

TWO POLISH young people recently proposed to get married in the Academy of Music in Philadelphia, and to pay a price upon the tickets of admission, but the project fell through because the management refused to issue the building for such a purpose.

ONE of the most beautiful and productive estates in Maryland, fifteen miles from Baltimore, consisting of 1,470 acres, was sold the other day for $78,000—nearly $57 per acre.

A MAN in Lockport, New York, last week disgorged a lizard, which had grown to a large size and then decayed in his stomach. The man died soon after the remains of the animal had been expelled.

TO MERCHANTS, MILLERS AND OTHER SHIPPERS.—I am now prepared to make season contracts for Lake Insurance in the old companies at best rates.

LOCAL MATTERS.

FIRE.—The dwelling house of Mr. Joseph Church in the town of Rock, took fire on the 4th inst., as is supposed from sparks catching in clothing, and but for a pump just bought of Wood & McGregor, would have been entirely consumed. Damage to house and clothing about $100. Insured in the Madison Mutual.

VACATION.—The Rev. Mr. Goodspeed, of the Baptist Church, has been granted leave of absence by his congregation, until the 1st of June. We understand that he takes a journey eastward. The pulpit of his church will be well supplied during his absence by Rev. gentlemen from out of town.

ANOTHER WAR MEETING.—There is to be another war meeting this evening, in the Court Room, and judging from the interest manifested last night, there will be a large turnout. Already those engaged in recruiting have a large number of names enrolled, and still new ones are being constantly added. The term of service is short, and it would seem that any who can possibly go, will "fall in" at once. Don't let Janesville be behind in this matter.

STATE FAIR MEETING.—Pursuant to notice, a meeting was held last evening at the Court Rooms "to determine as to whether the State Fair shall be held in Janesville or not." The Hon. J. M. Mitchell was called to the chair, and H. Richardson appointed secretary. Dr. Martin stated that if the sum of six hundred dollars could be raised for the purpose of erecting temporary buildings for the use of the Fair, it would be held here; whereupon, on motion, Mr. S. H. Henson, first ward, Dr. C. L. Martin, second ward, Wm. Penber, third ward, and G. S. Strassberger, fourth ward, were appointed a committee to solicit subscription for that purpose from the business men of the city, with instructions to report at a future meeting.

Adjourned till Wednesday next at 7 1/2 o'clock, P. M.

DISOLUTION.—RAY LEWIS, NEW FIRM.—In another column it will be seen that the firm heretofore known as Fifield & Bro., and lumber dealers, has been dissolved, and it therefore becomes imperative necessary that all the old accounts should be settled, and that at once. Those who owe them anything will give especial heed to this feature of their notice, of course.

But it will also be seen that a new firm has risen on the site of the dissolving view, which embraces another member of the same family; one who bought the first load of lumber ever brought to Janesville, twenty years ago, or thereabouts.—Mr. E. S. Fifield. The gentlemen composing this firm take high rank among our business men, and are widely and most favorably known throughout the country. Having a large and varied stock of lumber on hand, buyers will not be likely to overlook their yard when making purchases of this article.

WAR MEETING.—A meeting was held pursuant to call at the Court Room last evening "for the purpose of making arrangements to raise volunteers for the one hundred days' service." The Hon. John Mitchell in the chair. Mr. Comstock briefly addressed the meeting, and eloquently urged the necessity of immediate and vigorous efforts to furnish our proportion of the forces offered to the Government by Gov. Lewis. Messrs. Burgess, Conger, Putnam and Lockwood spoke to the same effect. On motion of Capt. Putnam, J. M. Burgess, M. C. Smith, H. Richardson, J. M. May and Capt. Millmore, were appointed as a committee to assist in procuring volunteers. On further motion, the Hon. John Mitchell was added to the committee. Mr. Towne was called upon for a song, and responded by singing one of his most patriotic songs. The meeting then adjourned till this evening at 7 1/2 o'clock.

EDITORS OF THE GAZETTE.—I wish through your columns to call attention to the recent call for men for one hundred days' service. The exigencies of the country at this time are greater than ever before. The marshalling of large armies at Chattanooga and on the Potomac portends great and decisive battles at hand. If they are decided against us the result will put us back in the war a year at least and perhaps will overthrow the Republic.

The President and the Northwestern Governors have thought it necessary that all the veterans should be made available in the coming battles, and to this end ask that the Northwestern States one hundred thousand men, with which to hold positions already in our possession. This appeal is made to the people of Rock county in common with the rest of the State, and the question is, shall it be responded to. It will be urged that the men cannot be spared from our industrial pursuits, our farms must be cultivated at all hazards. This is true to some extent but there are some classes of men who can be spared. The clerks in our mercantile houses can and should be spared, and, if necessary their places can be filled by women who will discharge their duties with fidelity and efficiency. Lawyers can as well go as not and the community will not suffer because of their absence. So of carpenters, masons, shoemakers, tailors, blacksmiths, saloon-keepers, gentlemen of leisure and money, can all be spared for one hundred days without detriment to the interests of the community. But suppose the community will suffer to some extent. If this call is not responded to the Nation may be overthrown, and the Government demolished. Better than suffer this, every able bodied man in the North should abandon all for the field. Now is the trying time. If beaten now our losses will be incalculable. If we are victorious now the rebellion will be substantially at an end. I have heard of some of our business men who refuse to release their clerks from their obligations in order that they may enlist. In this, I think they are wrong and inexcusable. Instead of hindering they should do all in their power to facilitate their enlistment. Every man in business should use all his influence to induce enlistments. I do not believe they think more of their trade than of their country. But is not that man's patriotism at least questionable who will not release his employees in this emergency? A little selfishness or apathy now and all may be lost. A little unselfishness, activity and patriotism, now on the part of the North, and the flag of Washington will soon wave in triumph over all its foes. Let our ranks be filled. Let the reputation of Rock county be fully sustained. LOCALIST.

THE BOOKS AND ACCOUNTS OF HOLBOWEN & WILCOX, have been left with me for settlement and collection; and being satisfied that time enough has been given for payment of the same, I shall call at once on all who owe me, and pay up. I shall be at the Gazette office for the present.

Things to be Remembered.

First, That it is a positive business necessity to have your buildings, merchandise and other personal property insured against fire.

Second, That E. L. Dimock now has the agency of nearly all the Sound Old Eastern Insurance Companies that are represented in the west, and that the capital represented by these companies is sufficient to do all the insurance for Janesville and Rock County.

Third, That these companies are noted for adjusting losses fairly and paying them promptly.

Fourth, That E. L. Dimock has left a few more of those beautiful calendars for 1864, blotting pads and excise laws for distribution to customers.

It is at all times important to insure with Old Companies. Now it is especially so, we know not what a day may bring forth in the financial world. Keep in the old paths. E. L. DIMOCK, Agent.

Coal.—I have made permanent arrangements with Mr. Robert Law of Chicago, agent of several of the most extensive coal mines in the United States, and much the largest coal dealer in the north-west, to furnish a full supply of the best quality of coal for Janesville and vicinity. In the course of a short time I shall be ready to make contracts for any amount at the lowest possible figures.

DISEASES OF THE EYE AND EAR.—Dr. Gardner, Oculist and Aurist, and one of the ablest operators in this country will again visit Janesville for three days on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 12th, 13th, and 14th. Office at the Hyatt House. The testimonials which Dr. Gardner presents to the public could never have been obtained except by the display of great skill and learning in his profession. One thing especially commendable in the doctor's practice is, that he will not attempt an incurable disease for the sake of a fee, but frankly tells the patient whether he can be cured or not. We cheerfully recommend Dr. Gardner to the attention of all our friends who may be suffering from diseases of the eye or ear.

FURTHER FROM MEXICO.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

New York, May 5.—World's Washington Special reiterates advice from the front which lead to the belief that Lee is abandoning the entrenchments of the Rapidan and retreating inland. There has been no collision between the two armies.

HEADQUARTERS' ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, May 4.—Herald's Special.—As an earnest of the spring campaign about to commence, I send you the following address of Gen. Meade. Its confident tone, patriotic sentiments and inspiring phraseology, all tend to, and do, begot the same tone and spirit in our brave men, who soon march upon the foe.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, May 4th, 1864.

Soldiers:

Again you are called upon to advance upon the enemies of your country. The time and occasion is deemed opportune by your Commanding General to address you a few words of confidence and caution. You have been re-organized, strengthened and fully equipped in every respect. You form part of several armies of your country, the whole under the direction of an able and distinguished General, who enjoys the confidence of the Government and of the people and army.

Your movement in co-operation with others is of the utmost importance. No effort should be left unprepared to make it a success. Soldiers, the eyes of the whole country are looking with anxious hope to the blow you are about to strike in the most sacred cause that ever called men to arms. Remember your homes, your wives and children and bear in mind that the sooner your enemies are overcome the sooner you will be returned to enjoy the benefits and blessings of peace. Bear with patience the hardships and sacrifices you will be called upon to endure. Have confidence in your officers and in each other. Keep your ranks on the march and on the battle field, and let each man earnestly implore God's blessing and endeavor by his thoughts and actions to render himself worthy of the favor he seeks, with a clear conscience and strong arms, inspired by a high sense of duty in fighting to preserve the government and institutions handed down to us by our forefathers, and if true to ourselves, victory, under God's blessing must and will attend our efforts.

(Signed) GEO. B. MEADE, Major General Commanding.

S. S. WILLIAMS, A. A. Gen.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—A general order, issued by command of Lieut. General Grant, declares that, until further orders, only shelter tents shall be issued to armies in the field. If soldiers refuse shelter tents, no tents will be issued.

Quartermasters are forbidden to issue any except shelter tents, and officers are prohibited from making requisitions for any other kind. There are many exciting rumors about, and reports fully sustain the prognostications in recent dispatches. The whole army in Virginia, for several days, been under marching orders with eight days' rations. A sharp, strong, comprehensive blow is to be struck, which will include the operation of an army of nearly half a million men, and extend along one whole great line from Virginia to the Tennessee. Butler and Sigel have also important parts to play in the movement on Richmond.

New York, May 4.—The Post's special says: "The rebels are concentrating an immense number of troops in Virginia, but our military leaders profess to be perfectly satisfied with the situation. All mail communication with the army of the Potomac and with the troops is prohibited for the present."

FROM KEY WEST.

New York, May 5.—Herald's Key West letter announces the arrivals of gunboats Galena, Carnubria and Tigra.

Advices from Charlot Harbor state that on the 26th of April a detachment of the 2d U. S. colored troops under Captain Crane, landed on main land and drove the rebel force back without loss on either side, captured 300 cattle and returned on the 26th.

FROM MEXICO.

New York, May 5.—Advices from Mexico via Havana, report Alvarez openly declared for Juarez and fortifying himself on the Acapulco, which is blockaded by French ships.

The fortifications at Mazatlan have been bombarded by the French frigate. French reported defeated in Oajaca and Guadaluajara, losing at the latter place 6000 men.

Report also says Juarez will be soon attacked and taken by Mexicans.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Washington, N. C., Burnt by the Rebels!

LOSS SAID TO BE VERY HEAVY!!

CONTRADICTORY REPORTS!

FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

Fort Monroe, May 3d.—Passengers report that Washington, North Carolina, was laid in ashes by struggling marines and soldiers at the time of its hasty evacuation. Government and naval commissaries, ordnance, and 2 new steamers were also destroyed. The city was mainly owned by Union people. Loss, several millions.

Four thousand federal troops suddenly evacuated Washington in the face of 7 companies of rebels, leaving the entire union population to their tender mercies after burning their houses over their heads.

When the U. S. steamer left the dock, the screams of women and children at being abandoned were pitiful.

Indignation against General Butler is bitter in North Carolina, and a delegation of leading men have gone to Washington to ask his removal.

It is said that the rebel rams have decided to attack our gunboats without waiting for assistance from their army.

New York, May 5.—We learn that West Point, Va., at the head of York river, was occupied by a portion of our force on Monday the 2d.

BALTIMORE, May 5.—Accounts from northern N. C. are evidently greatly exaggerated. A letter received from Fort Monroe this morning says several refugees had arrived from Washington report that place burned last Sunday, probably by guerrillas. It was a very small town, and in its most prosperous days had only 2,000 inhabitants. It is absurd to state the loss at several millions of dollars.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—A general order, issued by command of Lieut. General Grant, declares that, until further orders, only shelter tents shall be issued to armies in the field. If soldiers refuse shelter tents, no tents will be issued.

Quartermasters are forbidden to issue any except shelter tents, and officers are prohibited from making requisitions for any other kind. There are many exciting rumors about, and reports fully sustain the prognostications in recent dispatches. The whole army in Virginia, for several days, been under marching orders with eight days' rations. ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

NEAR ANLISGON HEIGHTS, April 27.—We are on the move again this morning, where to we do not know, unless to meet the rebels up on the Rapidan. All writing of letters is now prohibited at the front. The impression is that there is to be a big fight shortly, and an order has been issued that no letters will be allowed from the front for 30 or 40 days.

BEALTON, Va., April 27.—Everything betokens a forward movement. Supplies and speculators have been sent to the rear, as well as a great extra baggage. We have eight days' rations on hand, and under orders to march at a moment's notice.

CLEVELAND, O. H., Va., April 28.—This army is again ready to move at any moment with increased numbers. Its morale never was better, its discipline never more perfect. Every effort has been made to perfect the recruits in the manual of arms and manipulations of the line, and these efforts have been successful. The majority of the old troops, veterans included, are anxious to be on the move, and declare that camp life is becoming irksome and spiritless.

The place is being fortified with earthworks, but to what extent I am unable to say at present, but heavy details are made daily for this work. This position is evidently to be held at all hazards, as a base of supplies. The railroad is to be carefully guarded, and solid, and in many cases, massive block houses have been put up all along in the line from Culpepper to Washington.

ON FIRE.

The recent terrible catastrophe in Santiago recalls vividly to my mind one of the most extraordinary adventures of my chequered life. Five-and-twenty years ago, I was captain of the North Star, a large schooner trading between Hull and St. Petersburg. I was long acquainted with the vicissitudes of the Russian climate had made me somewhat reckless. The consequence was, that on the 30th of October, I found myself tight locked in the ice. I had stayed a week too long in my eagerness to take a full cargo of timber, and I was justly punished for my temerity; a prisoner till the middle of April, far away from my friends, and doing what a "livable" stable keeper would call "being my own head off."

Being, however, of a sanguine temperament, and having no wife at home to be anxious about, I resolved to make the best of it, and enjoy myself as well as I could. I saw all the sights in St. Petersburg, from Peter the Great's wooden house down to the mammoth. I visited Moscow. I went bear hunting. I drove about in sledges. I fell in love and fell out again. Nor did I neglect business. I frequently attended the exchange, and made myself known to the chief land and timber merchants. I studied Russian commerce. I arranged for cargoes for two years to come. The Anglo-Russians are very hospitable, and, thanks to the kindness of Mr. Anderson, the English banker, my hotel expenses were very small. My fur coats were my chief expense; they cost me a large sum then; but I reckoned that they would last me my life, and so they have—at least, I wear them to this day.

Nevertheless, I pined for the hour of liberty. An idle life did not suit a man of my temperament—on a ship who had been at sea ever since he was twelve years old. Like all sailors, I was always grumbling against the sea, and yet I was never happy away from it. At last the order of my release came. The ice on the Neva, opposite the custom house especially, began to melt into thin bars an inch or so wide. It became dangerous to venture on it, except where it was piled with snow. The ice-slabs on the quay began to break, when I pushed them with my stick into glassy fragments. Here and there some spaces began to open, and dirty brown snow water, pooled on the surface. There had been several warm days, with rain and wind came, and they soon melted the walls of my crystal prison. Sledges still ventured on the Neva, though the water rose up to the horses' knees.

One morning, when I looked out of my window on the ground floor at Miss Benson's, on the English quay, the water had all gone from the surface of the ice; that was the well known sign that the ice had become too porous and spongy to hold water; and in a few hours would break away from the banks and begin to float seaward.

I had just sat down to breakfast, when a thunder-peal of cannon broke from the fortress.

"What is that, Miss Benson?" I said to our hostess at the head of the table.

"That," she replied, "is the signal that the commander of the citadel, with his officers, is crossing the river, to present the emperor at the winter palace with a goblet of Fava water in token of the return of spring. The emperor will give him the cup back filled with daisies."

"Hurrah!" I cried; then hey for old England!

It took me some days to get the ship off, for it was tedious going backwards and forwards to Constantinople. It was the better week time; that seven days' feast which precedes Lent, and is followed by the rejoicing of Easter. In the intervals of business, as I went to and fro to my agent's, I amused myself with observing the revelry of this great Russian festival.

There were thousands of peasants de-vouring plump (pankies), and caviar, honey cakes and nuts. There were swings, sea-saws and roundabouts. The great square of the admiralty was the chief scene of the amusements. Close to the winter palace, the war office, and the senate-house, there were scores of temporary theatres, and long lines of ice mountains, down which the sledges kept rushing incessantly, amid the shouts and laughter of the good-natured but wild-looking peasants. At the doors of the theatres stood the "tea-sellers" with huge brazen samovars smoking in the centre of their tables, and surrounded by countless tenants. The shopkeepers themselves, in fur caps and gloves, stood by their stalls, stamping and clapping their hands, and shouting:—"Gentlemen, will you please take a warm cup of tea, with lemon or cream? How will you take your sugar?" (for a true Russian keeps his sugar in his mouth, and does not put it in his teacup.) The admiralty square was so full of shells, and there was a drunken bear of a peasant, a more feeling bundle of greasy sheepskin, jostled against me, and then, with a simple-hearted politeness of his race, took off his hat and hiccuped out:—"pardon me, my little father, but remember it is butter week!"

One day I sallied out into the great square about noon to see the gaudies of the capital drive through the fair, and I never saw such a sight. The line was guarded by mounted gendarmes, dressed like lanciers, and wearing light blue uniforms with brown epaulettes. There were Chinese, Turks, Tartars, Germans, Englishmen, Russian princes, priests, soldiers, bearded merchants and their portly wives, Cossack officers, colonels of the body-guards in their eagle-crowned helmets, and serfs, in a long procession of carriages, beginning at the rock on which Peter the Great's statue stands, reached to the base of the great granite column of Alexander, facing the enormous pile of the Winter Palace.

Just at the end of the procession, I turned aside to one of the great of the women theatre. A clash of music from within announced the commencement of a new performance; joining the torrent of people, old and young, rich and poor, who were jostling for admittance, I at last made my way to the pay-place, where a mob of clamorous moujik were thrusting out their hands with the admittance money, in childish impatience. I drew back to make way for a respectable old grey-bearded merchant and his pretty daughter, who, muffled up in a cloak trimmed with the fur of the silver fox, clung to his arm, and shrunk back from the mob's bustling and shouting. I thought I had never seen so charming a girl, so tender in manner, so gentle and spring-like in beauty. The merchant and his daughter bowed and thanked me in broken English for my politeness, paid their money, and passed in. I followed rapidly, but a crowd of peasants thrust themselves in before me, so that when I took my seat, I could obtain no glimpse of the merchant or his pretty daughter.

The wooden theatre of the Katschell was an enormous building, built, as a peasant used to tell me, by the hands of the gods. It had large galleries, balconies, and Corinthian pillars, hung with cheap drapery, and gay with red and blue paint. A vast chandelier lighted up the tent-like interior. The theatre was already full when I entered, so that I had to content myself with a back seat in an upper box, not far from the head of one of the staircases, as I soon found by the keep-edeared iced draught. I amused myself while the overture was playing, with the motley view before me. The Tartar faces, only partially reclaimed from barbarism, were worth studying, now that they beamed with joy, and the great beards, tangled with enjoyment, the great eyes, gleamed with the joy of the fall on a Polish or Cossack face, with large blue eyes, and almost a Greek contour. Every now and then, a group of grave portly-merchants in furred capstans and boots, mingled with the serfs, but with an obtrusive reserve that showed they did so under protest. Their children, also dressed in capstans and boots, were exactly like themselves all but the beards. Nor was there any lack of women of the lower orders; rough, honest, fish-looking women, few of them in beards, most of them with their heads bound round with colored handkerchiefs.

I did not listen much to the music; it was that brazen mechanical sort of music, without color or life, that no one listens to. By-and-by, it ended with a jolting crash. There was a moment's pause, and the curtain drew up. A deep hush passed over the troubled waves of the pit. The children clutched their fathers' hands, the soldiers ceased their practical jokes, the country-women paused in their gossip, and boys stopped eating, and every eye turned to the stage.

An honest old woman just before me—a house-keeper as I judged by her dress—amused me especially by her child-like eagerness. She put on her spectacles and leaned forward with both hands on her knees, to drink in every word. The play was a little operetta, half French, half Italian. I think they called it, "Rose and Lubin." It was a gay, trifling thing. The hero and heroine were villagers, and an old cross father, and a malicious fool, were the constant interrupters of their stolen meetings. Rose was dressed in a blue and white gown, with white silk striped with pink, and wore a girly hat. Lubin wore a non-descript sort of blue silk coat and dappled waistcoat, while the Xany tumbled into a thousand scraps in a sort of miller's dress all white, and a blue broad-brimmed hat. There was a good deal of hiding and searching about with soldiers, until the true lover eludes, and finally returns a general, to marry Rose. It was a flimsy, pretty bit of nonsense, mixed up with dances and songs, and now and then a chorus; and it was all over in half an hour.

Silly as it was, it pleased the audience, who shouted and laughed and cheered, and clapped, and displayed of fireworks, was to follow, and then a short farce. Between the acts, I tried the little Russian I knew, and asked the old woman, who had turned around and offered me some honey-cakes, "How she liked it?"

"My little father," she said, quite seriously, "it is the most wonderful thing I have ever beheld since I saw the deceased French not at Moscow, in Napoleon's time."

Suddenly all the clatter and laughter died away. The curtain had not been, but a faint crimson light was shining behind it. It was the commencement of the pyrotechnic display, and I was curious to see what the Russians could do in these matters. The first scene was to be the illumination of the Kremlin, at the coronation of the Emperor Alexander the first. Probably that was the preparation, for though the red light widened and glowed, the curtain, strangely enough, did not rise. The people stamped and shouted. All at once the bajazzo (the clown) in his white dress, ran forward, pale as death, his eyes staring, his hands tossing about like those of a madman. "We are on fire!" he shouted. "Save yourselves, you who can!"

"Bravo, Ferrari!" cried the peasants, with roars of laughter. "Excellent! Viva Ferrari! Bravo, Ferrari!"

The clown fled from the stage, as it seemed, in an agony of feigned fear. The laughter subsided, and a man in evening dress rushed forward, whispered to the orchestra, and waved his hand to some men who were not visible to the audience. The curtain rose swiftly at that ominous signal, and disclosed, to my horror, a rolling mass of fire and crimson smoke. Already the flies had caught fire and were hanging in blazing streamers. Fire rose from below, fire gleamed from above, fire darted its quick tongues from either side. The theatre was on fire. The bajazzo had not been feigning, but was terribly in earnest.

A SINGULAR CASE.—About a year since a gentleman and lady appeared in Constantinople, Ind., and he hung out his shingle inscribed, W. S. Johnson, Dentist. This lady was young and prepossessing. They seemed to be poor and avoided society, though the people seemed to take considerable interest in them. He got business and was apparently doing well until a few days since, when a man named Seymour from Livingston county, Michigan, presented himself, claiming Dr. Johnson's commission as his wife. He said he had lived with her without serious trouble, till she had borne five children, when she left him with Johnson, who had been boarding with them. An interview between the parties resulted in Seymour's accepting a sum of money for his wounded honor and left; but he wrote back to the woman promising to forget and forgive if she would return to him. A warrant was issued against Johnson, but he was allowed to escape, and she left, it is said, to return to her husband.

BRIQ. GEN. RANSOM, who so distinguished himself in the Red River battles, is one of the youngest generals in the service, being only twenty-nine years of age. He entered the service in 1861 as captain in the 11th Illinois volunteers. He was wounded in the shoulder at Charleston, Mo.; a second time in the shoulder at Fort Donelson where he was colonel of the 11th, and a third time wounded at Shiloh by being shot through the back of his head. He was now being wounded for the fourth time.

A BUTTER STORY.—A good story is told of a farmer who came to town a few days since, to market a couple of tubs of butter, bringing his wife along to do some trading. In the middle of looking out her new gaiters, husband came in and said: "Well, wife, you had best not do much trading to-day, for butter is bringing only 40 cents, and may be down to 30 cents before the week's over?"—Wayfield (N. Y.) Republican.

MARCUS J. COLE, a thrifty citizen of Pocasset, Mass., fearing pecuniary ruin, shot himself a day or two ago in the following ingenious manner: Selecting a retired room in the attic of his house just at the head of a flight of stairs, he placed a loaded gun upon the stairs in an inclined position, but its first discharge sent its contents through the side of the house. Upon the second discharge the bullet passed through his body close to the heart.

The New book, by the author of "The Lamp-lighter," it is said, far exceeds any previous work by this writer. It has great power, and is of intense interest. It will be published in May, simultaneously in Boston and London.

ONE of the dairy kings of Summit county, Ohio, stopped taking the Beacon, published at Akron, because the editor denounced the high price of butter. To the soul of such a man the area of a ten cent piece is infinite space.

Comfort for Rebels.

THE FACT that the Richmond Examiner publishes at length, and with commendatory remarks, the recent speech of the copperhead Love, in which he covertly urges the recognition of the seceded States, is not without significance to the loyal mind. That the rebels should feel highly elated over it, needs surprise no one, for when they see a man, sworn to support the Constitution of the United States, rise in his place in Congress and make the best plea that his feeble abilities will admit of, in favor of the recognition of the government they are trying to establish, it is not only a direct help to them by pettyfogging their case, but is an evidence that they have influential friends occupying high positions in quarters where they have the least reason to expect them. And, good reader, is it not an indisputable though lamentable fact, that these wretched miscreants who are laboring so zealously and maliciously for the overthrow of our wise and beneficent government, have not only secret friends among us at the North, who earnestly pray for their success, but they have bold and defiant advocates as well. None but the Infinite one can know how much strength and succor these misguided men have derived from those who ought to have been engaged in strengthening the hands that have been stretched forth to save the temple of our liberties from utter overthrow and ruin. Vallandigham has cost the North more lives than Stonewall Jackson, and the Knights of the Golden Circle in the free States have more blood upon their skirts than any brigade in the rebel ranks that ever went forth to battle under the Palmetto flag. And these gloomy shadows of death that are silently creeping across the threshold of so many homes, once peaceful and happy by the presence of loved ones, and the thousand of fathers and mothers in the North who will vainly look in their declining years for the return of those upon whom they went out to lean in their old age, and who went out to meet the foe with the flush of youth upon their brow, and the warm glow of patriotic blood at the heart,—these stricken parents cannot be ignorant of the fact that it is rebel hands at home that are holding to their lips the cup which contains the bitterness of a life-long sorrow. And now when the great army of the Potomac is brought face to face with a larger force than confronted Napoleon at Waterloo, our brave boys are casting furtive glances over their shoulders as though they heard the ominous sound of a "fire in the rear." Governor Morton declares it as his belief, that in case of Grant's defeat in the great battle soon to take place, the copperheads intend to make such a demonstration as will force a peace of some kind upon the country. Other evidences are not wanting to convince the most casual reader of the signs of the times, that our greatest danger is not in front. The party-hate and malignity, that is stronger in some minds than any love of country, and whose outcroppings appeared in the city of New York just after Lee was defeated at Gettysburg, may again show itself in a still more formidable manner, if our army goes down before Lee in Virginia, a contingency not at all impossible, although highly improbable.

And just here is found one of the reasons for this special call for hundred day men on the part of the Governors of the Western States. The fierce, implacable malignity of the Ohio, Indiana and Illinois copperheads, is well known, and it is to hold them in check, as well as to send disciplined troops to the front that this call is now made. These troops will be under arms before Grant fights his great battle, so that whatever may betide the Union army in Virginia, those cowardly assassins, can find that swift and righteous retribution which their crimes so justly merit without going far from their own dens.

RIVER-SIDE MEDITATIONS.

TO MY BOY.
BY T. TEMPLETON STILES.
Here by the river's bank, my boy,
I leave a simple wish for thee,
Perchance thou'lt read the lines, when I
By another river bank shall be.
The wind comes up the stream, and sounds
The warblers flowing from the mauls,
It seems as if the current weeds
Their pathway back again.
But underneath the rocking waves
The river holds its changeless course,
The warblers are the breeze's slaves,
The current mocks the tempest's force.
The surface may be vexed in foam
And by the scudding wind,
Still onward to its great life home,
The dainties stream moves unconfined.
And so, my boy, when earth's strong gleams
Would lull thee and send thy stream of life,
Though lighter, surface-thoughts may quail
And seem to stagger from the strife.
Still let the purpose of thy soul
More dauntless as the river's might,
Yield all the stream to God's control,
Assured that he will guide thee right.
And then, my boy—some day I'll hear
A music sweet as angel song;
Thy life-stream, purified and clear,
Come tripping up the strand of glory.

RIVER-SIDE MEDITATIONS.
TO MY BOY.
BY T. TEMPLETON THOMAS.
Here by the river's bank, my boy,
I leave a simple wish for thee,
Purchasing thou'lt read the lines, when I
By another river bank shall be.
The wind comes up the stream, and sends
The waves flowing from the main,
It seems as if the current would
Its refulgent pathway back again.
But underneath the rocking waves
The river holds its changeless course,
The waves are the breeze's slaves,
The current moves the waves' force.
The surface may be washed in foam
And fly before the scolding wind,
Still onward to its grand blue home,
The daintiest stream moves onward.
And so, my boy, when earth's strong gale
Would backward send the stream of life,
Though lighter, surfer thoughts may quail
And seem to stagger from the strife,
Still let the purpose of thy soul
Move onward to the river's might,
Yield all the stream to God's control,
Assured that he will guide thee right.
And then, my boy—some day I'll hear
A music sweet as angel song:
Thy lifeboat, purified and clear,
Come tripping up the strand of glory.
